

Binder—Please insert this plate in lieu of that previously issued.

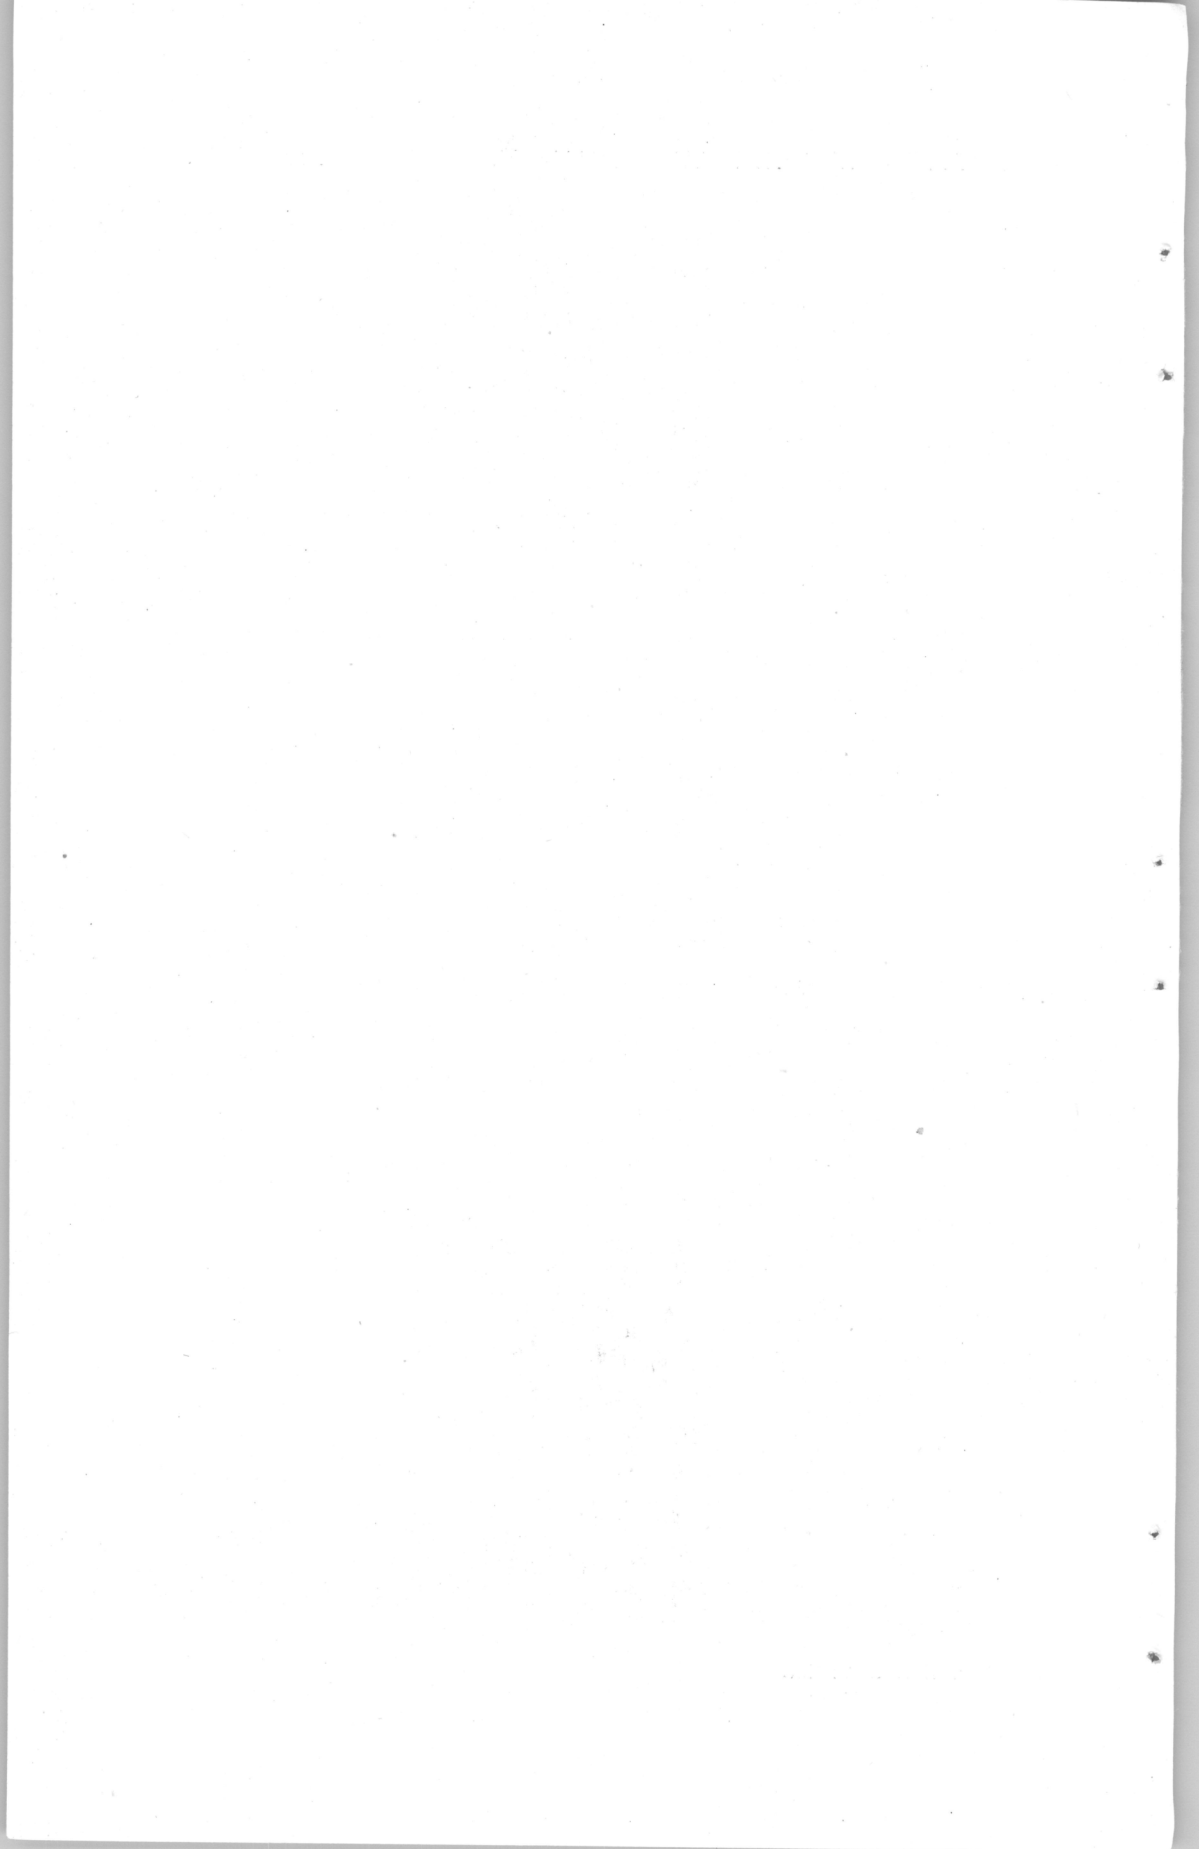

MISS E. A. KING, del.

MISS E. A. KING, del.

EXPLANATION OF PLATE I

PLATE I. - THE BATTLE OF BULL RUN

The battle of Bull Run, fought on July 21, 1861, was a significant event in the American Civil War. It was the first major battle of the war, and it resulted in a Confederate victory. The battle was fought between the Union Army of the Potomac, commanded by General Irvin McDowell, and the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, commanded by General Robert E. Lee. The Union Army was defeated, and the Confederate Army advanced on Washington, D.C. The battle was a turning point in the war, as it showed that the Confederates were capable of defeating the Union in a conventional battle. The battle also demonstrated the importance of the railroad in the war, as it was used to transport troops and supplies. The battle was a major setback for the Union, and it led to the Confederates' advance on Washington, D.C. The battle was a significant event in the American Civil War, and it resulted in a Confederate victory.