

EXPLANATION OF PLATE 6—(Continued)

- Fig. 10. Turbinolia pusillanima Nomland
Plesiotype No. 376, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from the type locality. Upright view to show costae.
- Fig. 11. Turbinolia imbulata (Hanna)
Plesiotype No. 359, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from "Rose Canyon." Upright view showing costae and pits in intercostal furrows.
- Fig. 12. Turbinolia imbulata (Hanna)
Plesiotype No. 359, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from "Rose Canyon." Cross section near the calice.
- Fig. 13. Turbinolia sulcata Lamarck
Plesiotype No. 382, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from "Middle calcaire grossier—Lutetian, (ferme des Boves) Parnes (Oise) France," Arthur Wrigley's label. The type locality given by Milne Edwards & Haime (1857) is "Environs de Paris." View of calice.
- Fig. 14. Turbinolia sulcata Lamarck
Plesiotype No. 382, S.D.S.N.H. type collection. Upright view of corallum showing costal characters and pits in the intercostal furrows.
- Fig. 15. Turbinolia imbulata (Hanna)
Plesiotype No. 358, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from the type locality, U. C. locality 5051: "At mouth of tributary to San Clemente Creek, due west of the "s" of Pueblo Lands [La Jolla topographic sheet of the U. S. Geological Survey], 40 ft. above the bottom of the creek. Elevation 225 feet." San Diego County, California. Cross section near the calice.
- Fig. 16. Turbinolia imbulata (Hanna)
Plesiotype No. 358, S.D.S.N.H. type collection, from the type locality. Longitudinal section showing ornamentation on the septal faces.
- Fig. 17. Turbinolia pharetra Lea
Plesiotype No. 44251, U. S. Nat. Mus., from the type locality, Claiborne, Alabama. Upright view of corallum showing costae swollen at the base and double row of pits in the intercostal furrows.
- Fig. 18. Turbinolia pharetra Lea
Plesiotype No. 44252, U. S. Nat. Mus., from the type locality, Claiborne, Alabama. Longitudinal section showing ornamentation on the septal faces.
- Fig. 19. Turbinolia pharetra Lea
Plesiotype No. 44251, U. S. Nat. Mus., from the type locality, Claiborne, Alabama. View of the calice.